"You like fishing a whole lot, don't you?" Bobby asked after dinner. "You'd rather go fishing than eat, I bet you."
"Well, I suppose there may be things I like better," said his father thoughtfully. "But for sports give me fishing and golf."
"Aw. golf." sniffed Bobby. "Just knocking a ball around and running after it, that's all. Fishing's a whole lot of fun and us fellers are crasp over it. Of course now it's getting to be too late, but course now it's getting to be too late, but gee, this summer it's been comething grand. Me and Sam and Billy has fished

"That was fine," said hie father cheerfully. "How many fish did you catch, my son?"

"Oh, well." Bobby replied, somewhat cast down. "We ain't got so many, at least not me. Billy causin two minnies and Sam got a perch, but me and the other fellers didn't have any luck."

"Berhaps there was too much noise." suggested his father. "Maybe the girls talked too much."

reason, it is exident that the practice is increasing or else more attention is being given to enforcement.

Throughout the list of highway dangers there is no greater menace than the intoxicated driver. He makes the highway not only perflous to himself and those with him, but he makes it dangerous for all other users. He has no respect for the rights of others. He is totally unmindful of regulations and he has no thought of doing anything but taking chances and speeding. One might as well think of placing a man under the influence of liquor in charge of a locomotive.

It is certainly time that determined measures were taken for the elimination of the intoxicated driver. The practice will continue to grow as long as there is the spirit of toleration. It is only by the handing out of punishment that will discourage that there can be hope of removing such a menace from the highways. Protection and eafety are not to be obtained through leniency to such individuals.

"Sam is missing his vocation," laughed his father. "He should be a lawyer, not a dector."

"He never told us till we'd got a lot o' worms," Bobby grumbled. "And then he said it was his yard, too, we got to pay, but we didn't."

"You found some way out, I warrant you," chuckled his father. "Did you put him off until he forgot all about it."

"Forget pothing!" cried Bobby, dolefully. "You don't know Sam. And that's what I'm telling you. I gotta have some money to pay him or he says be'll tell his father we was the fellers that tramped up the lawn and made him mad, and his father says he's going to skin the boys that did it. That dingy film

Most people who brush teeth in old ways have film-coated teeth. A viscous film clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. That film becomes discolored, particularly with men who amoke. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhes.

No old-type tooth paste can effectively fight film. So all these troubles were constantly increasing, and beautiful teeth were seen less often than today.

New discoveries Dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight that film. One acts to curdle it, one to remove it, and without

Many careful tests proved these methods efficient. Then authori-ties endorsed them, and dentists everywhere began to advise their

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent Then these two great film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

Not film alone But Pepsodezt brings other great results which research proves es-sential. It multiplies the alkalimity of the saliva. That is there to con-stantly neutralize the acids which cause decay. It multiplies the starch diges-tant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids. Those are Nature's great tooth-protecting forces in the mouth. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold power.
